Green Spring Publishing, United States, 2014. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 226 x 150 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .It s the Roaring Twenties, Jake and Raisa Kessel are married with two kids and a pile of growing debt. They need a change, some new pickings. They pack up for the bright lights and new opportunity in Port Huron, Michigan. They are living high on the hog; overnight, Jake finds himself standing in endless soup lines and even longer job lines. It s The Great Depression. Jake knows he has to make some fast money to get his family back to Wyoming, even if it might be illegal or dangerous. Back in a Lovell, Wyoming share cropper s shack, Jake and Raisa struggle to put food on the table and clothes on their backs. Raisa isn t cut out to do the hard physical field work and soon she s down to the flesh on her bones; she gives Jake an ultimatum. It s just the push Jake needed as they move off the rented farm and into their own tar-papered home in town. Then, Japanese bombs fall on Pearl Harbor and everything changes. The government needs men to build the Heart Mountain relocation camp and Jake signs on. Months later, Jake takes a job with Marathon Oil giving him a steady pay check and a retirement plan. The tide has turned, life is good. Their only son enlists to fight in WWII in Europe and they each have brothers who are Japanese POW s. Who will come home and who won t? What does the end of their life together bring? Who will be the first to die? Life is not always what it promises or seems and sometimes it breaks a person. When...
