

First Person: New Media as Story, Performance and Game (Paperback)

By -

MIT Press Ltd, United States, 2006. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 226 x 204 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book.

Electronic games have established a huge international market, significantly outselling non-digital games; people spend more money on The Sims than on Monopoly or even on Magic: the Gathering. Yet it is widely believed that the market for electronic literature -- predicted by some to be the future of the written word -- languishes. Even bestselling author Stephen King achieved disappointing results with his online publication of Riding the Bullet and The Plant. Isn't it possible, though, that many hugely successful computer games -- those that depend on or at least utilize storytelling conventions of narrative, character, and theme -- can be seen as examples of electronic literature? And isn't it likely that the truly significant new forms of electronic literature will prove to be (like games) so deeply interactive and procedural that it would be impossible to present them as paper-like e-books? The editors of First Person have gathered a remarkably diverse group of new media theorists and practitioners to consider the relationship between story and game, as well as the new kinds of artistic creation (literary,...
